Kulturkirche Altona gemeinnützige GmbH is a company which simultaneously supports the urban culture of Hamburg. As a co-operation partner of the parish of Altona-Ost, Kulturkirche Altona gemeinnützige GmbH leases the church-building of St. Johanniss for cultural and commercial use. By commercial lease money is generated, which supports financing the maintenance expense of the church-building. Regularly the church is a place for company parties, fashion shows and pop concerts. Unilever and the German Advertising Association are among many others who were imaginatively and creatively enough for an event at one of the most exceptional event locations in the centre of Hamburg: So as we are!

- six different bus stops nearby
- metro station (Holstenstraße) within 5 minute walking distance
- 3 long distance railway stations (Central station, Altona and Dammtor) nearby
